HIT AND RUN WORKED BY A TRUCK-HORSE BATTERY, DROPS PHILS IN OPENER

McCarty and Tesreau Stage Play Without Mishap and Home Folks Take the Count—Mayer Tastes Defeat

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL.

It's pretty sad when a catcher who is built for comfort, not speed, and can travel 100 yards in about ten minutes, flashes the hit-and-run sign to a pitcher who also falls shy as a sprinter and the play goes through without a mishap. Yes, it's a pretty sad state of affairs, but such was the stunt pulled yesterday by the New York Giants while they were imposing on our Phils in the first of a four-game set. Spectators sat with tears in their eyes when the terrible work was put on, and Gordon Mackay almost fell out of the press box.

Losing a game does not carry with it the sting and disgrace of a successful hit-and-run play used by a truck-horse battery. No alibi can cover it and it takes years to live it down. It is just like rubbing it in, as it were.

Here's the real low-down on the act which was billed in the seventh chapter: McCarty almost knocked Stock off his feet with a stinging slam down the third-base line and barely reached first base after Milton had kicked the ball a couple of times. The burst of speed shown by the catcher was like a study in still-life, and many wondered if he ever would reach the bag. After beating the delayed throw, however, Mac sought fresh fields to conquer. He was much pleased with himself, so he flashed the hit-and-run to Big Jeff Tesreau, who had slouched up to the plate. Jeff threw out his chest, smiled, dug his spurs into the ground for a good start and tapped one of Mayer's wide curves into right field for a single.

McCarty tore up the turf and dashed to third with all the grace and agility of a steam roller doing a hard day's work. He managed to reach the bag, however, but after that McGraw refused to take any more chances. He wanted him to play on the field again, so he sent Jim Thorpe in to run for him. That gave Lew a chance to recover from his sprint so he could be available for duty today.

After that every one admitted that the Phils were in for a good trimming. The 6000 rosters gave up hope and it was a good thing they did. The Giants moved over some more perfectly good rallies and when the total reached one half dozen they knocked off for the day, judging from the Phils' score, it is impossible to determine whether or not they were in the game—in fact, they haven't scored yet.

Mayer Gets His

Erskine Mayer suffered his first defeat of the year, but he is lucky to start in so early. He will meet with other reverses during the season and it would be a shame to have him carry over his young life after this summer. The hit home on the visiting team slammed his twisters for ten safeties, many of them going for extra bases. Rose Young, the youthful phenom, picked on the first triple which tried to float by him and sent it to the center field wall for three bases. That was a swell start and when Benny Kirt took home the first home run, the younger amble home with the first counter. That was the start and there could be but one ending. Tincup was in at the finish and yielded only two runs and one hit.

Big Jeff and his dump delivery had the Morans standing on their heads, and although five safe wallows flew off their bats, no two came in one inning. The bingles were widely spread and thinly scattered, or words to that effect. With that high-class pitching, combined with the underhanded mauling by his bats, the Giants could not have done the ball game. Answer: They couldn't.

Look Like Winners

Taking them by and large, the Giants look like the goods this year. Of course, any club looks good when it walks away with the national title. They are going to get the national title. They are going to get the national title. They are going to get the national title.

Picking Was Good

"Just listen to this list of talent and tell me who would happen to a scout who could deliver a similar gang to a big league manager. Why, they'd elect him president! There was Fred Stone, who played with Omaha; three-fingered Brown, from the same club; Jack Weiner, from Kansas City; Charles O'Leary, from Des Moines, and a couple of bums named Johnny Kling and Frank Roth, from the same club."

He Was Promised Fifty

"A chance like that only comes once in a lifetime," sighed Augie, "but it was good while it lasted. Too bad I couldn't have waited until now to have my big year. After that season's soft play, when $30,000 looks like cigarette money to some of the magnates."

Young Makes Debut

Rose Young, the twenty-year-old marvel fresh from the brush, lived up to his advance notices. True, he made a fizzle on Whitford's low drive, but he made a home run to catch the ball with his feet instead of his hands. He is a great fielder, covers lots of ground and swings a wicked mace while at the bat.

Four of Pershing's Wounded Soldiers Aid Loan Drive at Boxing Club

MANY BIG SUBSCRIPTIONS

Stop, look and listen!

Local boxing fans stopped at the Olympia A. A. last night to see the weekly boxing show; looked at four of General Pershing's fighters who arrived in the city last night after doing duty in the first-line trenches, and looked up their pocketbooks to the extent of $78,000 worth of subscriptions to the third Liberty Loan.

Boxing was pushed to the one side at the Olympia A. A. last night for almost an hour. Who cared to see two heavyweights chase around the ring when one had the opportunity to listen to four of the first American soldiers who had done active duty in the first-line trenches and were home on a furlough to receive from subscribers to the third Liberty Loan.

The four brave Americans arrived in this city shortly after 7 o'clock last night and were invited to see the bouts at the Olympia. As had been the case during the last four weeks, a Liberty Bond rally was scheduled to take place previous to the final bout.

Great Reception

The entire audience, unaware of the treat in store, sat motionless when the four khaki-clad lads, one of whom had just passed his seventeenth birthday, climbed into the ring behind Bobby Callahan, the official announcer.

"Boys," began Bobby, "this is the proudest moment of my life. I have the pleasure of introducing four American soldiers who have just returned from France, where they were wounded in the first-line of trenches and I am proud to see them here."

After the men and women in the audience had given their seats, Bobby Callahan finished his introductory address, and then introduced Henry S. Drinker, of the Committee of Public Safety.

PENN FRESH IN INAUGURAL MEET TO SEE ATHLETICS

Quaker Yearlings Oppose Combined High Schools at Franklin Field Today

QUARTER MILE FEATURE FIRST GAME POSTPONED

The combined strength of the Philadelphia public high schools will be thrown against the University of Pennsylvania freshmen at Franklin Field this afternoon in the opening track meet of the season for the Red and Blue yearlings.

In years gone by the Quaker first-year students have found the high school lads easy, but this season there is some doubt as to the victor. The Lawson Robertson combination cannot be compared with the select aggregation which represented the freshman class last season, but still he has some excellent athletes and exciting races and fairly fast times are sure to be staged.

The feature of the meet, according to the past records of the competitors, will be the quarter mile, in which Dewey Rogers, former Northampton captain, and at present the best 440-yard man in the freshman class, Captain Gronquist, the leader of the Princeton combination, will meet. Central and York, Penn., Johnny Bartels, the pentathlon champion, probably will be in the shut-out, one of the hurdles and the quarter mile. Bartels ran the quarter under three minutes and two seconds twice last week, once in the trials for the freshman relay team and again in the relay carnival. If he does under fifty-two he will give Rogers a hard battle for the honor.

The schedule of the track meet forced the cancellation of the baseball game with Villanova which was slated for this afternoon. The contest originally was slated for tomorrow afternoon, but was moved up by Manager Sam Harrell on account of the military training. It is probable that the Main Line will be scheduled for a game in May.

Ensign John Tittel, who while at Penn last year was one of the best pitchers in college ranks, was out at Franklin Field yesterday and worked out with the ball team. He won his commission at Cape May and recently was transferred to the League Island Navy Yard. He has been in the service almost a year.

ARMED GUARD PROTEST CONVINCES AUTHORITIES

Holdout Outfitting Star Ordered to Report to Brooklyn Club

It was a Mild One About Navy Yard Games, but It Wins

An official protest that the schedule of the Philadelphia Navy Yard baseball game be run off as originally planned, made by Lieutenant Store, representative of the Armed Guard, was sustained by Mr. Andrew Houghley, chairman of the association.

It was originally planned to have the various teams play a round-robin series for the championship of the yard. The fact that two of the teams were compelled to drop out of the competition, due to naval duties, led some of the team representatives to voice the opinion that the series for the championship be lengthened.

Lieutenant Store voiced the opinion that, inasmuch as the Armed Guard representatives had virtually closed the yard by winning three straight games, the series should be run off in the manner originally planned. Thus, if Armed Guard defeated Hospital, its next opponent it will have played against the team which has won the championship.

However, it is planned to call a meeting of the managers of the various teams within the week for the holding of the championship of the yard. At this meeting the advisability of launching a new series will be discussed.

FRANK SHEA FAVORITE TO WIN COLLEGIATE 440-YARDS TITLE

Running in Penn Relay Carnival Stamps Him as One of the Best Sprinters in Country

FRANK J. SHEA'S wonderful performance of running two quarter-mile dashes in the exceptionally fast time of 49.2-5 seconds and 48.4-5 seconds from a flying start last week in the twenty-fourth annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania has caused many to proclaim him another Ted Meredith.

While this statement, at this time, may appear to be a trifle exaggerated to the average sportsman, it cannot be denied that the Lehigh speed king has the stamina of a Meredith and almost as much speed. Not since the immortal Ted won the quarter and half-mile intercollegiate championships in record time four years ago has a middle-distance runner shown such speed and endurance in a college meet.

Included in his ability to run fast and often that the westerners won three championships. He carried the Blue and Gold to victory in the American college sprint relay race on Friday and the Clara B. and the variety one-mile relay championships on Saturday. A Shea's feat is all the more remarkable when one considers the fact that he had less than an hour's rest between the two events on Saturday.

Shea's running in the Red and Blue relay stamps him as the best quarter-mile in collegiate ranks today for the Blue and Gold. He is satisfied with anything but first place in team points. Shea is a self-supporting student, and when not attending classes and training works as a telegraph operator for the Pennsylvania Railroad. He is president of the sophomore class.

dozens of college men who circled the track who ran the distance in less than 52 seconds.

In addition to being one of the best quarter-mile in collegiate ranks, Shea is equally as fast in the 220-yards dash and no doubt will be among the leaders in this event in the intercollegiate championship, which will be held this season on Franklin Field. This is Pittsburgh's first year in the intercollegiate meet, and they are determined to make their debut a success. They won't be satisfied with anything but first place in team points.

CONTEST SCHEDULED FOR TODAY IN METROPOLIS AT THE POLO GROUNDS

Local baseball had its arduous day dampened yesterday, but today appears more promising. If all is well, the Athletics and Yankees will stage a nice reel set beginning at 3.45 p. m.

Mack is awaiting the decision of the National Commission on his claim in the services of Scott Perry, whom he picked up in the South. Connie learned today that Percy Houghton, of the Braves, claims priority to Perry. Mack said last night that he will not give up without a fight, as Perry has shown latent pitching ability in the short time he has been with the Athletics.

"Ping" Bodie visited the Athletics yesterday evening with a view of renewing old acquaintances, but the chunky fence buster was surprised to find that nearly all of his old comrades had departed for other fields.

There is quite some local interest in the visiting Athletics. Manhattan fans are eager to get a glimpse of the most completely reorganized team in baseball since a year ago this time. Mack is here for his first series of 1918, with only one player, a pitcher, who was with the team when it made the long visit to the Polo Grounds in 1917. The lone survivor of that inaugural trip of a year ago is Elmer Myers, now the patriarch of Connie Mack's regulars, in the matter of big league experience, although he did not join the team until the autumn of 1916.

Stacy last night was still undecided about his pitching choice for the first clash with the Yankees. His selection seems to be leaning toward Greg and Scott Perry with the chances favoring Greg because of his old-time effectiveness against the locals, as a member of the Cleveland Indians.
